What are you grateful for today?

I'm grateful for my wild animal friends who visit regularly during quarantine. Particularly a female grey squirrel with a broken tail, two scrub jay's, and a raccoon. I'm grateful for my elders and anchors who have helped me become who I am. I'm grateful for opportunities in disturbance, and for the people working so that we can make a better world on the other end of this pandemic.

Why do you think you would be a good fit for this position?

I'm uniquely qualified to support someone in this position. I've been working to create this content for 3 years, and planning and thinking about Potluck Revolution for 2 years. I've made several videos that have gone viral on facebook. I'm used to working in collaborative environments and empowering people to do their best work.

What is unique about you that would add to this project?

I've been working on this project for 3 years and working with 8 Shields nature connection mentoring for 12. I have a passion for helping people build authentic relationships with themselves, nature, and their communities in an accessible way. I have a lot of experience producing videos.

How comfortable are you talking about and addressing issues of power, privilege, racism, social justice, and cultural appropriation?

Not very 1 2 3 4 5 Very

Can you address and discuss these issues with the gravity they deserve while maintaining a sense of inner peace?

Mostly.

Tell us a little about your relationships with your elders, anchors, and mentors.

I have two elders, mentors that I work with regularly and have a very close relationship with. My step father was a huge mentor to me. He passed away recently, and I'm feeling the absence of his firm, challenging, loving questions in my life. I have a handful of peer anchors and we rely on each other in times of need, but tend to lose contact when we're all okay.
